

What to do...

Baby memories

Most children like to hear how they looked and behaved as babies. This should motivate them to write for this activity! It is appropriate to emphasise the importance of capital letters at the start of sentences and full stops at the end. Encourage your child to read their work through when they have finished writing. Does it make sense?

© Hamilton Trust, 2008. Y3.

1. Ask your mum or dad, or someone else in your family what you were like as a baby.
2. Write some sentences about yourself on a piece of paper.
3. Draw a picture or stick a photo at the bottom of your writing.
4. Ask permission before using the photo!
5. Include these things in your writing:

- What you looked like
- What you liked
- What you didn't like!
- What your first or favourite word was.

6. Bring your work back into school to show your teacher and friends.

